Phyllis Pearsall

Phyllis Pearsall was born in Britain in 1907. She stayed there until she left school, then travelled around France. She earned money by painting people's pictures and writing for a newspaper in Paris. She married an artist and went with him to paint in Spain.

In the 1930s she Left Spain and returned to London. She worked for her father's company. making maps for the world. She thought there was a need for new street maps of London and started working on a book of maps.

She collected a lot of information. She walked alone every street in the capital and wrote down the name, important buildings and even the house numbers. She kept the information about streets on cards in small boxes. One day a box with cards on all the streets beginning with Tr. Fell out of her window. She found most of the cards. but some landed on top of a bus and she never found those cards again. When she sent everything to the printer, someone asked her, "Why Isn't Trafalgar Square in your book?" It was because she lost the card !

She called her book A to Z. The first A to Z was in the shops in 1936 and sold very well. Now it is the most popular book of London street maps. As well as street names. It shows important buildings like government offices, museums, theatres and schools; parks and public gardens; sports facilities stations; train and underground stations.

Later Phyllis Pearsall returned to the streets of London to paint pictures of the city's famous buildings.
