Don't Read the following until you answer the above

William Blake(1757-1827)

This is a poem about a guardian/a parent /a nanny/or a goddess who protects the children or the people under her care.

William Blake had two categories of poems (Songs of Experience and Songs of Innocence ) The above poem belongs to Songs of Innocence .

The nurse or the guardian seems to be a kind hearted and gentlewoman. She interacts with the children/ people in the poem and indulges them by giving into their whims. She seems to adore them and treats them as if they were her own.
